Vijayendra eyes stronger grip on Karnataka BJP through BSY Abhimanotsava event

By highlighting Yediyurappa's legacy, Vijayendra aims to unite cadres and strengthen organisational authority.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The 'BSY Abhimanotsava' scheduled in Chitradurga on May 9 to commemorate former Chief Minister B. S. Yediyurappa completing 50 years in public life is emerging as more than just a celebratory event. Within the Karnataka BJP, the programme is increasingly being viewed as a strategic exercise by state president B. Y. Vijayendra to consolidate his leadership position amid continuing factionalism in the party.

Though officially projected as a tribute to Yediyurappa's political journey and contribution to the BJP's rise in Karnataka, party insiders indicate the scale and timing of the event carry larger organisational significance. With multiple power centres continuing to influence party affairs after Yediyurappa's retirement from electoral politics, Vijayendra is seeking to establish stronger authority ahead of upcoming electoral challenges.

Since taking over as Karnataka BJP president nearly 30 months ago, Vijayendra has faced criticism from sections of the party over the BJP's struggles in the state. Some leaders privately argue that he has not yet managed to revive the party's momentum in the way his father once did. Against this backdrop, the Abhimanotsava is expected to serve as a public demonstration of organisational strength and cadre mobilisation.

Yediyurappa's enduring influence among Lingayat voters, a crucial support base for the BJP in Karnataka, remains central to this strategy. By foregrounding his father's legacy, Vijayendra is attempting to bridge internal divisions and rally workers around a leadership figure who still commands wide acceptance within the party.

The invitation extended to Union Home Minister Amit Shah has further heightened political significance surrounding the programme. Party sources believe Shah's presence would send a strong signal about Vijayendra's acceptability to the BJP's central leadership and could influence ongoing internal equations in the state unit.

Senior leaders including R. Ashoka, Jagadish Shettar and Govind Karjol have already expressed support for Vijayendra. However, the response from other senior functionaries who have maintained distance from his leadership will be closely watched.

Political observers note that while legacy politics can unify cadres, it also carries limitations if not backed by sustained organisational results. With the next Assembly elections still two years away, the event may appear premature to some. Nevertheless, the Abhimanotsava is expected to test Vijayendra's ability to manage factions, coordinate large-scale mobilisation and project an image of unity within the Karnataka BJP.

Woman loses Rs 80,000 meant for children's school fees on BMTC bus

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A 39-year-old woman's attempt to arrange money for her children's school fees ended in distress after Rs 80,000, borrowed from her younger sister, was allegedly stolen while travelling on a crowded BMTC bus in Bengaluru.

The incident took place when Pankaja, a resident of A Narayanapura in Mahadevapura, boarded BMTC bus route number 317 from the City Market bus stand towards Tin Factory.

According to the complaint filed with City Market police, Pankaja's family has been facing financial difficulties, prompting her to seek help from her sister Rathnamma. Earlier that day, Pankaja had visited KIMS Hospital to see a cousin who was admitted following an accident.

Later, she visited Rathnamma's new house in Hanumanthanagar, where her sister handed over Rs 80,000 in cash to help pay school fees for Pankaja's two children. She reportedly kept the money inside her vanity bag. Rathnamma also gave her a bag of rice before she left for home.Pankaja travelled by BMTC bus to Victoria Hospital bus stop and then walked to the City Market BMTC stand, where she waited nearly 30 minutes for bus number 317.She told police that she had checked the cash just minutes before boarding the bus around noon. However, while entering the crowded bus, she was pushed by commuters. Although she initially managed to get a seat, she later offered it to an elderly woman believed to be in her 70s and remained standing in the packed vehicle.

Karnataka seeks extension for delayed Green Energy Corridor project

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Karnataka's ambitious plan to strengthen renewable energy transmission infrastructure under Phase II of the Green Energy Corridor project has run into delays, prompting the state government to seek an extension of the completion deadline until July 31 next year.

The project, sanctioned by the Centre for states with significant renewable energy generation, is aimed at creating dedicated transmission infrastructure to evacuate solar and wind power into the national grid. Karnataka, one of India's leading renewable energy producers, was among the key beneficiaries selected under the programme.However, execution of the project has slowed considerably due to land acquisition challenges and difficulties in securing right of way for transmission lines and substations. Officials said these issues have emerged as the biggest obstacles in completing the project within the original March 31 deadline.The Karnataka Power Transmission Corporation Limited (KPTCL), the implementing agency, has so far completed nearly 50 percent of the project work.Launched in 2022, the second phase of the Green Energy Corridor project in Karnataka involves construction of 938 circuit kilometres of transmission lines along with substations having a combined capacity of 1,225 MVA. The infrastructure is expected to facilitate evacuation of nearly 2,640 MW of renewable energy across the state.

The estimated cost for Karnataka project is Rs 1,036 crore and the central grant at 33 percent of the project cost is about Rs 342 crore, of which Rs 108 crore has been disbursed.

In a letter dated April 16 addressed to the Secretary of the Ministry of New and Renewable Energy, Additional Chief Secretary (Energy) Gaurav Gupta cited several unforeseen challenges that had delayed implementation. Gupta stated that despite sustained efforts by the state government and KPTCL, progress was hindered by persistent right of way issues and delays in certain technical components of the project. One such delay involved the loop in loop out of the second circuit of the existing 220 kV Mahalingapura-Kudachi double-circuit line at the 220 kV Athani substation. Officials said the work order for the component could be issued only in January 2026 after conducting a fresh survey owing to anticipated right of way concerns.According to data shared by the Ministry, 498 circuit kilometres of transmission lines and substations with 600 MVA capacity had been completed as of March 31. KPTCL has already awarded all 10 project packages.

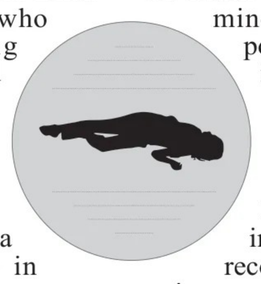
The Green Energy Corridor programme envisages a total investment of Rs 11,369 crore nationwide. States are required to bear 67 percent of the project cost through internal resources or borrowings.

Woman found dead in locked Adugodi flat; police probe mysterious circumstances

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A 34-year-old woman was found dead under mysterious circumstances inside her locked rented house in Bengaluru's Adugodi area, with police recovering her decomposed body lying in a pool of blood late Monday night.

The deceased has been identified as Puja Dutta, a native of Hirapur in Dhanbad, Jharkhand, who had been living alone on the third floor of a multi-storey residential building in Adugodi for the past three years while working at a private company in the city.



The incident came to light after neighbours noticed a strong foul smell emanating from her flat and alerted the house owner, Janakamma, who then informed the police.

According to police, when officers reached the spot, the house was found locked from inside. A locksmith was called to break open the door. Upon entering the flat, police discovered Puja's body in a naked and highly decomposed condition, suggesting she may have died at least three days earlier.

Investigators also found blood stains on the floor, torn papers scattered across the room and a table fan switched on beside the body, adding to the mystery surrounding the death.

Police said the exact cause of death would be determined only after the post-mortem examination.

The body has been shifted for autopsy.

Adugodi police have begun examining Puja's phone records and questioning people known to her in an effort to reconstruct her final movements and interactions.

House owner Janakamma told police that Puja was unmarried and generally kept to herself, though she mostly communicated in Hindi with neighbours and tenants.

She said two young men staying in a nearby rented house first complained about the foul smell coming from Puja's flat.

"I suspect it may have been suicide because the door was bolted from inside with three latches.

The locksmith had to break it open using a hammer," Janakamma said, adding that there were visible cut marks on the woman's body.

She also revealed that a man frequently visited Puja and that the two often argued loudly, though the nature of their relationship and the reasons for their disputes remain unclear.

According to Janakamma, Puja had earlier been warned for playing loud music through a large speaker in her room, which disturbed other residents in the building.

"I had asked her to vacate the house after repeated complaints. She argued with me," the owner said.

Janakamma further stated that she last saw Puja on Thursday when a prospective tenant had come to inspect the property.

Police are now attempting to identify and trace the frequent male visitor while investigating whether the death was a suicide or involved foul play.

Bengaluru police arrest 24 in IPL black ticket crackdown

According to police officials, a total of 17 cases related to black marketing of IPL tickets have been registered in the last one month.

Of these, 16 cases were booked at Cubbon Park Police Station, while one case was registered at Halasuru Gate Police Station.

Police said the accused allegedly procured match tickets through various means and attempted to resell them at inflated prices to cricket fans desperate to attend the matches.

Most of the arrests were made by the Central Crime Branch (CCB), which launched a special operation to monitor and curb illegal ticket sales during the IPL season.

Woman booked for allegedly trying to torch brother's house over property dispute

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A long-standing property dispute between siblings allegedly turned violent after a woman and her family vandalised her brother's house and threatened to set it on fire in Byrasandra, south Bengaluru.

According to police, S Ashwini (35), a resident of 9th Cross, filed a complaint stating that she lives with her husband Umesh and their children on the ground floor of a four-storey building owned by the family.

Ashwini said the property originally belonged to Umesh's father and was later transferred to Umesh, who subsequently constructed additional floors on the building. However, a civil dispute regarding ownership is currently pending in court between Umesh and his elder sister Meenakshi.

Police said Meenakshi, accompanied by her husband and children, allegedly entered the premises and vandalised the house by damaging doors, windows and CCTV cameras.

In her complaint, Ashwini alleged that Meenakshi abused family members using foul language and issued threats during the confrontation.

She further claimed that her sister-in-law poured petrol around the house and threatened to set the building ablaze.

After the situation escalated, Ashwini contacted the police helpline 112. Hoysala police personnel rushed to the spot and brought the situation under control.

A police officer said the family has been involved in frequent disputes over the property matter.

Investigators are also examining CCTV footage recorded before the cameras were damaged.

Further inquiry is underway.

HEALTH HAZARD

Traffic noise emerging as major health threat for Bengalureans, warn doctors

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Bengaluru's worsening traffic congestion is no longer just an inconvenience for commuters but is increasingly becoming a serious public health concern, with doctors warning that prolonged exposure to traffic noise is contributing to rising hearing-related disorders among residents.

Medical experts say constant exposure to noise levels ranging from 70 to 100 decibels (dB) on the city's roads is affecting people across age groups, particularly those spending long hours in traffic or living near busy roads and junctions.

According to doctors, Bengaluru's traffic noise frequently exceeds safe limits, with several residential and commercial areas regularly recording noise levels above 60-70 dB, while major traffic corridors witness even higher levels during peak hours.

Dr Jyotirmay S Hegde, Head of Department and Lead Consultant, ENT, Aster Whitefield Hospital, said sustained exposure to sound levels above 70 dB significantly increases the risk of hearing impairment.

"The concern is not just occasional exposure but the continuous nature of the noise. People are exposed during commuting, through constant honking, and even while staying near busy roads. Studies indicate that the risk of tinnitus rises with every 10 dB increase in traffic noise," he explained.

Doctors say the symptoms often develop gradually, making early diagnosis difficult. Tinnitus, a persistent ringing sensation in the ears, is usually the first warning sign. This may later progress to difficulty understanding speech in noisy surroundings, muffled hearing and a blocked-ear sensation.If left unchecked, the condition can develop into mild or moderate sensorineural hearing loss.

Apart from hearing-related complications, specialists are also observing a rise in non-auditory symptoms linked to excessive noise exposure, including headaches, irritability, sleep disturbances, reduced concentration, ear discomfort and increased sensitivity to sound.Adding to the concern is the growing use of earphones and headphones during daily commutes.Dr Shantanu Tandon, Senior Consultant, ENT, Sakra World Hospital, said many commuters tend to raise the volume of their devices to drown out surrounding traffic noise."Over time, this permanently damages delicate hair cells in the inner ear, leading to tinnitus, reduced hearing clarity and early hearing loss. Young adults are particularly vulnerable," he said.

Dr K Jisha, Consultant-ENT at Kauvery Hospital, Marathahalli, pointed out that despite regulations governing honking and permissible noise levels, enforcement remains weak.She noted that the city's dense traffic conditions and rampant honking culture continue to worsen the problem, even affecting silence zones near hospitals and schools.

Centre rules out fuel price hike

Despite soaring global crude prices and heavy losses to fuel retailers, govt rules out any immediate hike in petrol and diesel rates, even as panic buying and supply concerns emerge in some states

NEW DELHI

Amid rising crude oil prices and speculation of a post-election hike, the government on Tuesday said there is no plan to increase petrol and diesel prices after polling ends in West Bengal on April 29.

The assurance comes even as global oil markets remain volatile and fuel retailers face mounting losses.

The clarification follows reports of panic buying in parts of the country, especially Andhra Pradesh, where rumours of a price hike led to long queues at petrol pumps.

More than 400 fuel stations reportedly ran dry on Sunday, with demand rising by as much as 30–33% at some outlets. "We have seen panic buying in some places. We are in continuous contact with state governments," said Sujata Sharma, Joint Secretary in the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas.

"All retail outlets are being monitored and supplies are being prioritised so that stock availability is ensured and there are no dry-outs," she said.

Dismissing speculation, Sharma made it clear, "There is no proposal to increase petrol and diesel prices."

She also urged the public not to rely on rumours. "I want to urge everyone to please don't believe in rumours. Avoid panic buying and rely on official sources for information."

According to the government, the country has adequate stocks of petrol, diesel, LPG and aviation turbine fuel to meet demand.

"We have enough supplies of LPG, petrol and diesel. Prices are stable and there has been no increase in rates," she said.

Pressure builds on fuel retailers

The government's position comes despite growing financial strain on state-run oil companies, which are selling fuel below market rates.

Officials say losses are significant, with estimates suggesting daily losses of around Rs 2,400 crore. Earlier, Sharma had said oil firms were losing about Rs 20 per litre on petrol and nearly Rs 100 per litre on diesel.

Global oil surge adds to concerns

Global crude prices have surged sharply over the past two months, rising more than 50 per cent amid tensions in West Asia. Prices spiked after US and Israeli strikes on Iran on February 28 and Tehran's retaliation, which disrupted movement through the Strait of Hormuz, a key route that handles nearly a fifth of the world's oil trade. Crude, which was around USD 70 per barrel last year, has averaged over USD 114 this month.

Prices frozen for 4 years

Despite the surge, retail fuel prices here have remained unchanged since early April 2022. Petrol currently costs Rs 94.77 per litre in Delhi, while diesel is priced at Rs 87.67. While oil companies earlier balanced losses with profits during periods of lower crude prices, the current gap between global and domestic rates has widened sharply.

Airline industry on verge of 'stopping operations'

NEW DELHI

Warning that the country's aviation industry is under "extreme stress and on the verge of closing down or of stopping its operations", the Federation of Indian Airlines (FIA) has written to the government seeking revision of ATF pricing and temporary suspension of excise duty on jet fuel for domestic operations.

The FIA, which represents Air India, IndiGo and SpiceJet, said the "dire condition" of the aviation industry has also been exacerbated by the West Asia crisis, which has led to air space closures leading to additional expenses.

Seeking urgent intervention on the current Aviation Turbine Fuel (ATF) ad hoc pricing, it said this is "creating severe imbalance" in domestic and international operations and rendering airline networks unviable and unsustainable.

Iran in a state of collapse: Trump

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump on Tuesday said Iran is in a "State of Collapse," while claiming that Tehran has asked Washington to reopen the Strait of Hormuz.

Trump also reiterated that Iran was facing a leadership crisis.

"Iran has just informed us that they are in a 'State of Collapse.' They want us to 'Open the Hormuz Strait,' as soon as possible, as they try to figure out their leadership situation," Trump wrote on Truth Social.

Efforts to end the West Asia conflict appeared stalled on Tuesday, with the United States saying it is considering Tehran's latest proposal to unblock the Strait of Hormuz, even as Iran insisted Washington could no longer dictate terms.

Iran has blockaded the strategic waterway, a vital route for global oil and gas shipments, since the start of the US-Israeli offensive two months ago, sending shockwaves through the global economy.

BJP SWEEPS Gujarat local body elections

Saffron party wins all 15 municipal corporations, AAP Surat stronghold falls

AHMEDABAD

The BJP has orchestrated a near-total sweep of Gujarat's urban landscape, securing control over all 15 municipal corporations in a powerful display of electoral dominance, while Congress has suffered a sharp collapse and AAP managed only scattered, symbolic gains.

The results from the 2026 local body polls confirm that the "saffron wave" has not only held steady but intensified in key urban centres, leaving the Opposition with negligible presence in the state's major city councils. The verdict has turned into a massive saffron scoreboard, with the BJP storming cities, towns and villages in a display of organisational muscle that has left rivals struggling for space. The outcome is being seen as the first major political signal ahead of the 2027 Assembly polls.

The counting held on Tuesday covered one of Gujarat's biggest democratic exercises, including 15 municipal corporations, 84 municipalities, 34 district panchayats and 260 taluk panchayats. Of the 10,050 total seats, 732 had already been won unopposed, while the remaining seats produced a decisive verdict. The biggest headline came from urban Gujarat, where the BJP scripted a clean sweep by capturing all 15 municipal corporations.

I would like to applaud the large family of Gujarat BJP Karyakartas for their efforts at the grassroots. They have always worked among the people and addressed their problems. This is why our Party has time and again been the preferred choice of Gujarat.

KSEC denies seeking deferral of GBA polls

BENGALURU: The Karnataka State Election Commission (KSEC) has clarified that it has not sought any postponement or extension of time for conducting the GBA elections, amid speculation over a possible delay in the poll process. In a statement issued on Tuesday, it stated that it had never requested deferment of the polls and remained fully prepared to conduct it as scheduled. The clarification comes in the wake of proceedings before the Supreme Court, where an affidavit related to the GBA polls was recently submitted by the Commission. As per officials, the affidavit only explained the preparatory measures undertaken for the elections and did not contain any request seeking additional time.

LABOURER DIES AS HEATWAVE SCORCHES RAICHUR

CH NEWS, RAICHUR

With scorching summer heat intensifying across Karnataka, concerns over heatwave-related illnesses and deaths are growing, particularly in North Karnataka districts where temperatures have been soaring above normal levels over the past few weeks.

A 45-year-old man collapsed and died while working under the rural employment guarantee scheme in Raichur district amid severe heat conditions. The incident occurred at Yapaladinni village and the deceased has been identified as Husenappa Madival.

According to local sources, Husenappa was engaged in outdoor work when he suddenly collapsed due to exhaustion in the intense heat. Co-workers and villagers rushed him to a nearby hospital, but he died on the way.

The incident comes amid increasing warnings from health officials over prolonged exposure to direct sunlight and high temperatures during peak afternoon hours. Several districts in North Karnataka, including Raichur, Kalaburagi, Vijayapura and Koppal, have been witnessing intense heatwave conditions this summer.

Doctors have advised people, especially outdoor workers, elderly citizens and children, to remain hydrated, avoid stepping out during afternoon hours and seek medical help immediately if symptoms such as dizziness, fatigue or dehydration occur.

The India Meteorological Department has already issued alerts for continued high temperatures in several parts of the state. Experts warn that climate change and rising urban heat conditions are contributing to longer and harsher summers in Karnataka.

Authorities are expected to step up awareness campaigns and precautionary measures, with concerns growing over the impact of extreme heat on vulnerable sections of society.

SCORCHING HEAT GRIPS NK

North Karnataka is witnessing severe heatwave conditions this April, with temperatures in several districts crossing dangerous levels. The Kalyana Karnataka region has emerged as one of the hottest zones in the state, with Kalaburagi recording temperatures between 44°C and 45°C in recent days. Koppal registered among the highest temperatures in the region, while Raichur and Vijayapura consistently remained above 42°C. Several locations across North Interior Karnataka also reported maximum temperatures exceeding 40°C.

IMD issues thunderstorm alert

BENGALURU: After days of intense heat, Karnataka is finally stepping into pre-monsoon mode. The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has issued an orange alert for Karnataka weather, warning of thunderstorms along with speedy winds across multiple regions of the state, including Bengaluru, for three days from April 29. India set to receive 4th unit of S-400 missile systems early May

NEW DELHI

India is set to receive the fourth unit of the S-400 Triumf surface-to-air missile system from Russia in the first part of May, as per reports.

It is expected to further enhance the Indian Air Force's air defence mechanism.

Last month, New Delhi cleared the procurement of a new batch of five S-400 missile systems deployed by Russia, which will take the total number to 10.

It is reported that the fourth unit of the missile system has already been shipped and it is expected to reach India in the next few days.

In October 2018, India signed a $5 billion deal with Russia to procure five units of the missile systems and three of them have already been delivered.

Reports said the fifth unit of the missile will be delivered by November under an updated timeline for supplying the weapon system.

The S-400 missile systems played a crucial role during Operation Sindoor.

India had signed the deal for procurement of the S-400 missiles over seven years back notwithstanding a warning by the US that going ahead with the contract may invite US sanctions under the provisions of Countering America's Adversaries Through Sanctions Act (CAATSA).

The S-400 is known as Russia's most advanced long-range surface-to-air missile defence system.

DIPLOMATIC TRIUMPH

Dawood aide Dola deported to India

NEW DELHI

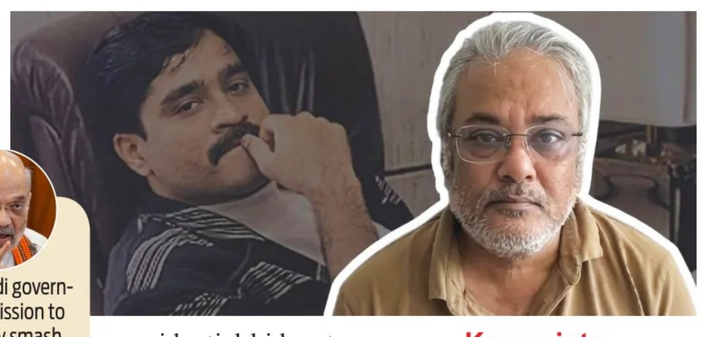
Salim Dola, an alleged key mephedrone producer and close associate of fugitive don Dawood Ibrahim, who was detained in Turkey, was brought to India on Tuesday morning.

The 59-year-old landed at Delhi Airport and was taken into custody by the Delhi Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB).

A Delhi NCB officer said they will first interrogate Dola and then hand him over to various states, including Maharashtra and Gujarat, where cases are registered against him. Dola was detained by the Turkish Intelligence Agency and the Beylikduzu police on Saturday, following inputs from India's agencies.

Local police tracked him to a residential hideout in the city's Beylikduzu.

The CBI facilitated his extradition from Turkey. Interpol had issued a Red Corner Notice against Dola on the CBI's request, as the Mumbai police and the NCB wanted him in various cases. A resident of Dongri, the same Mumbai neighbourhood that shaped much of organised crime in India, Dola has been on the radar of narcotics agencies for nearly three decades.



Under Modi government's mission to ruthlessly smash drug cartels, our anti-narcotics agencies have extended their claws across borders through a robust network of global agencies. Now, no matter where they hide, no place is safe for drug kingpins. Dola was brought from Turkiye under 'Operation Global-Hunt'.

Amit Shah, HM

Key points

- He was arrested in Turkiye based on an Interpol Red Notice issued at India's plea.
- The extradition is part of 'Operation Global-Hunt', targeting international drug syndicates by the Centre.
- Dola is wanted in India for multiple narcotics trafficking cases and has ties to Dawood Ibrahim.
- Salim Dola's criminal history includes involvement in high-value seizures of heroin, charas, and other drugs.

Pahalgam-like attack in Mumbai: Man stabs 2 after asking religion

MUMBAI

A man has been arrested in Mumbai's Naya Nagar area for allegedly asking two security guards their religion before stabbing them. Police sources said the accused, Zaib Zuber Ansari (31), demanded the guards recite the 'kalma' or 'kalima', which are the foundational doctrines of Islam. Chikkamagaluru KPS school faces allegations of enrolling students as private SSLC candidates without informing parents.

Karnataka School under scanner for SSLC enrollment issue

CHIKKAMAGALURU

The administration of Karnataka Public School (KPS), Begar in Sringeri taluk, is facing serious allegations after four of its regular students were reportedly enrolled as private candidates for the SSLC examinations, allegedly to improve the school's pass percentage.

According to reports, the students had been studying regularly at the government school for the past three years. Parents have claimed that they were not informed about the change in examination category and that the decision was taken without their consent. The issue has now led to formal complaints being submitted to senior education officials.

The parents stated that their children were actively attending classes at KPS Begar and had also participated in school activities, including sports, where some had received recognition. They alleged that the school staff misused their status as regular students by registering them as private candidates for the board examinations.

The alleged move is said to have been aimed at artificially improving the school's academic performance statistics, particularly the SSLC pass percentage. The complaints have raised concerns about transparency and ethics in school-level examination practices.

Education department officials are expected to examine the complaints and verify the enrollment records and examination details. If confirmed, the case may lead to disciplinary action against those responsible for the decision.

The incident has sparked debate over pressure on government schools to improve results and the possible misuse of administrative processes to meet performance targets. Authorities are now expected to investigate whether proper procedures were followed and whether parents' consent was obtained before changing the students' exam category.

DYFI march halted, activists detained in Mangaluru protest

MANGALURU

Police in Mangaluru detained several activists of the Democratic Youth Federation of India (DYFI), as they attempted to march toward the Dakshina Kannada district in-charge minister's office. The protest was organized to highlight alleged issues affecting government hospital services and to demand immediate intervention from authorities.

According to reports, DYFI members gathered in large numbers and began a "Chalo Office" march, raising slogans against what they described as negligence in public healthcare facilities. Police intervened as the march progressed, citing concerns over law and order. Activists were stopped before reaching the destination, and several were taken into preventive custody. Authorities stated that the protest had not received proper permission and could disrupt public movement in the area.

DYFI leaders criticized the police action, alleging that it was an attempt to suppress democratic protests. They insisted that their demands were legitimate and focused on improving healthcare access for economically weaker sections. The organization warned of intensifying protests if the government does not respond promptly.

Meanwhile, police maintained that the situation was handled peacefully and that detainees would be released following standard procedures. No major incidents of violence were reported during the operation.

The protest highlights ongoing tensions between youth organizations and local authorities over public service delivery, especially in the healthcare sector in Dakshina Kannada district.

TN plans floating solar projects in reservoirs to boost clean energy

It has identified 7 locations for the pilot phase, selecting prominent reservoirs such as Mettur dam, Bhavanisagar dam, Vaigai dam, Red Hills reservoir, and Sathanur dam, along with a TNGECL-owned site at Avalanche lake

CHENNAI

In a major push toward renewable energy, Tamil Nadu Green Energy Corporation Limited (TNGECL) has unveiled plans to develop floating solar photovoltaic projects across key reservoirs in Tamil Nadu.The initiative aims to overcome land constraints for traditional solar parks while accelerating the state's transition to sustainable energy sources.The corporation has identified seven locations for the pilot phase, selecting prominent reservoirs such as Mettur Dam, Bhavanisagar Dam, Vaigai Dam, Red Hills Reservoir, and Sathanur Dam, along with a TNGECL-owned site at Avalanche Lake. These sites were chosen based on their water availability, size, and feasibility for hosting floating solar infrastructure.

Officials confirmed that TNGECL has initiated discussions with the Water Resources Department to secure necessary approvals for utilizing these waterbodies. At the same time, a private firm has been engaged to conduct feasibility studies focusing on technical viability, environmental impact, and integration of advanced systems such as battery energy storage. The project announcement is expected after the withdrawal of the election-related Model Code of Conduct.According to TNGECL estimates, Tamil Nadu holds an untapped floating solar potential of nearly 3,000 MW across 57 reservoirs. The initial pilot phase is expected to generate around 100 MW, serving as a benchmark for scaling up similar projects across the state. The feasibility assessment will also examine factors like reservoir depth, cost structures, and site suitability to ensure efficient implementation. While floating solar projects typically require about 20 percent higher investment compared to ground-mounted systems, they offer long-term economic and environmental benefits. The estimated cost ranges between ₹5 crore and ₹6 crore per MW, with each unit requiring approximately 3.5 acres of water surface due to additional floating infrastructure.Despite the higher upfront expenditure, officials believe the initiative could significantly reduce reliance on coal-based power generation. Over the next five years, the state could potentially save between ₹10,000 crore and ₹15,000 crore, reinforcing its position as a leader in clean energy adoption and sustainable infrastructure development.

India eyes manufacturing boost to achieve $30 trillion economy

NEW DELHI

India is accelerating its push to become a $30–35 trillion economy by 2047, with manufacturing identified as a key growth driver.According to an official fact-sheet, the sector's contribution to GDP is projected to rise to at least 25 percent from the current 16–17%, reflecting a strategic shift toward large-scale industrial expansion and infrastructure-led development. As part of this transformation, the government is focusing on developing integrated manufacturing hubs designed to enhance efficiency, reduce costs, and support long-term industrial growth. These hubs combine physical infrastructure, regulatory support, and advanced connectivity, creating ecosystems that can sustain large-scale production and strengthen India's role in global supply chains. The approach marks a transition from fragmented industrial development to a more coordinated and system-driven model.This shift is closely linked to India's evolving infrastructure strategy, which now emphasizes system-level planning instead of isolated project execution. By addressing bottlenecks and improving logistics efficiency, this model ensures smoother operations for industries and timely completion of projects. The government's capital expenditure has seen a significant increase, rising from Rs 2 lakh crore in the financial year 2014–15 to Rs 12.2 lakh crore in 2026–27.

He argued that this cultural reverence must translate into tangible empowerment through policy and representation.The Chief Minister also cited several prominent women who have left a lasting impact on India's history and progress. He referred to Rani Lakshmi Bai as a symbol of courage, Savitribai Phule as a pioneer of education and social reform, and Kalpana Chawla as an inspiration in the field of science and exploration. According to him, these figures exemplify the leadership and resilience that women bring to every sphere of life.Focusing on Uttarakhand's own history, Dhami highlighted the contributions of regional icons such as Tilu Rauteli, Jiya Rani, Rani Karnavati, and Gaura Devi. He noted that these women demonstrated exceptional bravery and leadership, from resisting invasions to protecting the environment.

Ramadoss blames DMK govt for rise in illicit liquor trade

CHENNAI

Anbumani Ramadoss criticised the ruling M.K. Stalin-led DMK government, alleging that its inaction has led to a surge in illicit liquor sales across Tamil Nadu, forcing local communities to take matters into their own hands.

In a statement on Tuesday, the PMK leader referred to a recent incident in Podur village near Bennenagaram in Dharmapuri district, where a group of women allegedly ransacked four illegal liquor outlets operating in the area. The main accused in the illicit trade, identified as Govindan, reportedly escaped during the incident.While asserting that taking the law into one's own hands is not an acceptable solution, Ramadoss said the prevailing situation was a direct consequence of administrative failure.He alleged that the DMK government, which has been in power for the past five years, has created an environment where villagers felt compelled to act due to the unchecked proliferation of illegal liquor shops.

According to him, the four outlets in Podur were not newly established but had been functioning for several years. Despite repeated protests by local residents demanding their closure, no effective action was taken by the authorities.He further claimed that similar illegal roadside liquor outlets operate round the clock across the Dharmapuri district.Ramadoss also pointed out that the PMK had organised multiple protests seeking the removal of such outlets, and that Dharmapuri MLA S.P. Venkateshwaran had raised the issue in the Assembly. However, he alleged that the state government failed to act, and instead indulged in petty politics by mobilising certain groups to demand the opening of government-run liquor outlets in other villages.Highlighting the scale of the issue, Ramadoss claimed that while 4,787 TASMAC shops function legally across Tamil Nadu, more than 20,000 illegal liquor outlets are operating in parallel.

Justice Sharma recuses from Karti Chidambaram plea

NEW DELHI

Justice Swarana Kanta Sharma of the Delhi High Court on Tuesday recused herself from hearing a plea filed by Congress MP Karti P. Chidambaram seeking quashing of a CBI corruption case linked to alleged bribery involving Diageo Scotland.

When the matter came up, Justice Sharma declined to hear the case, which will now be placed before another Bench, subject to the orders of the Chief Justice, the master of the roster.

Chidambaram has sought the quashing of the FIR registered by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on January 1, 2025, accusing him of influencing public servants to secure relief for Diageo Scotland over a ban on duty-free sale of its whisky.

In his plea, the Congress MP has contended that he was never called during the preliminary enquiry and denied an opportunity to present his stand before the registration of the FIR.

He has also argued that there was an unexplained delay of nearly two decades, as the allegations pertain to the period between 2004 and 2010, while the FIR was lodged only in 2025. Chidambaram has further submitted that there is no allegation that he either demanded or accepted any bribe or illegal gratification, and therefore, offences under the Prevention of Corruption Act are not made out against him.

This is not the first time Justice Sharma has recused from a matter involving Chidambaram. Earlier, she had recused herself from hearing his plea challenging a trial court order framing charges in the alleged Chinese visa scam case.In that matter, Chidambaram has challenged the December 23, 2025, order of a special CBI court, which framed charges against him for criminal conspiracy and bribing a public servant over alleged irregularities in the issuance of visas to Chinese nationals in 2011. According to the CBI, around 250 Chinese workers were allegedly granted project visas for a Punjab-based power project in violation of Ministry of Home Affairs norms.Justice Sharma has also recently recused herself from hearing former AAP MLA Naresh Balyan's bail plea in a case under the Maharashtra Control of Organised Crime Act (MCOCA).

After Kejriwal, Sisodia on 'Satyagraha' in Delhi liquor case

NEW DELHI

AAP leader and former Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia has joined his party's national convener, ex-CM Arvind Kejriwal, in escalating their legal and political fight in the alleged Delhi liquor policy case by invoking the Gandhian principle of 'Satyagraha' while expressing a loss of confidence in the court proceedings.

After Kejriwal, Sisodia has also written a letter to the Delhi High Court judge expressing his reservations.

Taking to X, Sisodia shared the letter and posted, With the utmost respect and regard, I have written a letter to the Honorable Justice Swarnkanta Sharma of the Delhi High Court, requesting that, under the present circumstances, my conscience does not permit me to participate further in the proceedings of this case before her.

For me, this is not a question of any particular individual, but rather of the trust upon which the justice system is built – that justice must not only be fair, but must also appear to be fair to every citizen.

I also wish to make it clear that my faith in the judiciary and the Constitution remains completely unshaken. But when serious doubts linger in the mind, mere formal participation is not right for me. Therefore, I am left with no path but Satyagraha… he added.

Sisodia wrote, Yesterday, on 27 April 2026, Mr. Arvind Kejriwal addressed a letter to Your Ladyship setting out the reasons why, in his conscience, he was unable to participate in further proceedings in the present matter.

I have carefully considered the substance of that letter. Having done so, I find myself in respectful agreement with the stand taken by him, which is based on Mahatma Gandhi's teachings on Satyagraha.

I wish to state that two aspects of this case trouble me a lot. The first is the issue arising from Your Ladyship's repeated public attendance of the Akhil Bharatiya Adhivakta Parishad, a lawyers' organisation publicly understood to belong to the RSS.

The second is the issue arising from the professional engagement of Your Ladyship's children on multiple Union Government panels, and the resulting appearance of closeness to the very law officers who now appear against me on the other side, he added.

THE BIG DAY IS HERE

Kerala polls: UDF confident, Left cautious as verdict nears

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

With just six days to go before Kerala election results are out, the political temperature is rising across camps, even as public posturing and backroom calculations reveal sharply contrasting moods ahead of counting day.

Polling for the 140-member Assembly concluded on April 9, setting the stage for a decisive contest between the ruling Left Democratic Front led by Pinarayi Vijayan and the Congress-headed United Democratic Front (UDF) under Leader of Opposition V. D. Satheesan.

The BJP-led NDA, which failed to open its account in 2021 after losing its lone seat, is now banking on a fractured mandate to emerge as a potential kingmaker.

Pre-poll surveys have thrown up mixed projections, offering no clear trend. Yet, in the days following polling, the narrative battle has intensified.The UDF camp appears visibly upbeat, with leaders and supporters increasingly confident of a return to power. In contrast, the Vijayan camp has adopted a studied silence, a strategy that has only added to speculation.Interestingly, social media has become a parallel arena of political forecasting. Pro-Left handles are projecting a historic third consecutive term for Vijayan, a feat never achieved in Kerala's electoral history.

On the other hand, UDF leaning voices are claiming a comfortable victory, placing the alliance well above the halfway mark of 71, with some even predicting a tally crossing 100 seats.Adding to the mix, noted writer and former IAS officer N.S. Madhavan has offered a more measured forecast, suggesting the Left could retain power with around 75 seats, leaving the UDF at 65 and the NDA without representation.

What has particularly energised the UDF ecosystem, however, is the intense jockeying within its ranks over the chief ministerial post.

Maharashtra woman assaulted by friend's family

Dombivli

A deeply shameful and shocking incident has come to light in Dombivli, Maharashtra, where an orphaned young woman was first brutally beaten by her friend's family members and was subsequently victimised by the very youth she had sought help from. According to the police, the victim works at a private establishment in Dombivli and has no immediate family support. It is alleged that her friend's family members assaulted her over a purported false accusation, with the friend's father also reportedly involved in the attack. After sustaining severe injuries, the young woman intended to file a police complaint but had no one to accompany her.

Tejashwi slams Centre after killing of Bihar youth in Delhi

The incident reflects growing insecurity and discrimination faced by migrant workers from Bihar in the national capital

PATNA

Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) leader Tejashwi Yadav has strongly criticised the BJP-led central government following the killing of a young man from Bihar in New Delhi.

The Rashtriya Janata Dal leader alleged that the incident reflects growing insecurity and discrimination faced by migrant workers from Bihar in the national capital.

The controversy erupted after a 23-year-old man, identified as Pandav Kumar from Bihar's Khagaria district, was reportedly shot dead, while his friend Krishna sustained serious injuries in the same incident. Raising concerns over the safety of migrants, Yadav claimed that individuals from Bihar are increasingly becoming targets, alleging that their identity itself has turned into a reason for violence.

In a strongly worded post on the social media platform X, Yadav questioned the accountability of authorities responsible for maintaining law and order in the capital. He pointed out that multiple layers of governance in Delhi, including administrative and political leadership, are under the Bharatiya Janata Party, thereby holding the ruling establishment responsible for the incident.

Yadav further alleged that economic challenges in Bihar have forced many residents to migrate to other states in search of livelihood opportunities. However, he claimed that these migrant workers often face discrimination, harassment, and even violence in host states. According to him, the lack of adequate protection and respect for migrant communities highlights systemic issues that need urgent attention.

The RJD leader also raised questions regarding the conduct of law enforcement agencies, alleging that the victim did not receive fair treatment. He demanded strict action against those responsible and called for accountability within the policing system.

The incident has once again brought the issue of migrant safety and inter-state social tensions into focus. Political reactions are expected to intensify in the coming days as debates over governance, law enforcement, and the treatment of migrant communities continue to gain traction.

Women workforce participation rises sharply: Mandaviya

NEW DELHI

Minister of Labour and Employment Mansukh Mandaviya on Tuesday highlighted a significant rise in women's participation in India's workforce, stating that the female labour force participation rate has increased from 23.3% in 2017–18 to 40 percent in 2025. He described the trend as a clear indicator of growing empowerment and expanding opportunities for women across the country.

Speaking at the SwigStree: Celebrating Women on the Move event organised by Swiggy, Mandaviya emphasised that women's equal participation in the workforce is not only a matter of social justice but also a key driver of economic growth. He noted that empowering women remains central to the vision of building a developed India, often referred to as a Viksit Bharat.

The minister attributed the improvement in employment indicators to policy measures undertaken under the leadership of Narendra Modi. He pointed out that the Female Worker Population Ratio has risen from 22 percent to nearly 39 percent during the same period, while the Female Unemployment Rate has declined from 5.6 percent to 3.1 percent. These figures, he said, indicate that more women are not only seeking employment but are also successfully finding jobs.

Mandaviya also highlighted the expansion of social security coverage in India, which has grown nearly threefold over the past decade—from 19 percent in 2015 to over 64.3 percent in 2025. He said this progress reflects sustained reforms in labour laws, increased digital inclusion, and targeted welfare initiatives aimed at supporting workers across sectors.

A key focus of his address was the implementation of the four Labour Codes, which came into effect last November. He described these reforms as transformative, particularly the Code on Social Security, which for the first time formally recognises gig and platform workers. This recognition is especially significant for women engaged in flexible or app-based work, as it provides them with legal identity and access to social protection. The minister further noted that the Labour Codes enshrine the principle of equal pay for equal work, marking a major step toward eliminating gender-based wage disparities.

ED summons Kolkata DCP in Sona Papu syndicate case

KOLKATA

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) has again summoned Kolkata Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP) Shantanu Sinha Biswas for questioning in the Sona Papu-linked syndicate case, a day before the second and final phase of voting in the state.

The DCP has been asked to appear at the CGO Complex on Tuesday. According to ED officials, he has been summoned as part of its investigation into a money laundering case against an alleged criminal-linked syndicate run by Sona Pappu alias Biswajit Poddar. Sona Pappu, a resident of Ballygunge in South Kolkata, faces various charges, including land grabbing and extortion. There is also a case against him under the Arms Act. The ED started the investigation in the wake of several such allegations.

The Central Investigation Agency officials have already arrested businessman Joy Kamdar in that case. Based on the information in this case, the ED raided Shantanu Biswas's house on Fern Road this month. He has not been seen in public since the search operation started.

The day after the search, the ED summoned Shantanu Biswas and his two sons, Sayantan and Manish, to the CGO complex in the Sona Pappu case. But none of them went to the ED office that day.

Last week, the ED summoned Shantanu Biswas, who is also a former Officer-in-Charge of Kalighat police station in Bhabanipur, for the investigation into the sand smuggling case.

However, he did not appear before the ED officers. Instead, his lawyer went to the ED office. According to sources, Shantanu sought time from the central investigation agency due to his busy schedule.

Infra push: PM Modi launches ₹4K cr projects in Sikkim

GANGTOK

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday inaugurated and laid the foundation stones for multiple development projects worth around ₹4,000 crore in Sikkim, highlighting the strategic importance of the Northeast region.

Addressing a public gathering, he described the region as India's Ashtalakshmi and emphasised the government's accelerated development approach.

Speaking at Paljor Stadium, the Prime Minister said the Centre has moved beyond its earlier Act East policy to adopt an Act Fast strategy for the Northeast. He stated that projects spanning healthcare, infrastructure, and education sectors have been initiated to boost growth and improve quality of life in the region.

Highlighting the natural wealth of Sikkim, Modi noted the state's rich biodiversity and scenic beauty. He pointed out that the region is home to over 500 species of birds and around 700 species of butterflies, along with extensive forest cover, making it a major attraction for tourists. According to him, enhanced connectivity will play a crucial role in unlocking the state's full tourism potential.

The Prime Minister underscored the importance of infrastructure development, particularly in transport. He said the Sevok-Rangpo railway line is progressing rapidly and will bring rail connectivity to Sikkim for the first time. Additionally, a proposed expressway connecting Bagdogra Airport to Gangtok is expected to significantly cut travel time and boost tourist inflow.

Modi also took aim at previous Indian National Congress governments, alleging that they had neglected the development needs of Sikkim and the broader Northeast. He asserted that development activities have gained momentum since the Bharatiya Janata Party came to power at the Centre.

To further strengthen the local economy, the Prime Minister announced the development of 1,000 homestays aimed at promoting tourism and generating employment opportunities. He also praised the youth of Sikkim for their achievements in sports and reiterated the government's commitment to nurturing talent through initiatives like the Khelo India programme.

In the healthcare sector, several new programmes were launched as part of the development package. Modi claimed that healthcare infrastructure in the state had remained underdeveloped in the past but is now receiving focused attention. He concluded by reiterating the Centre's commitment to inclusive and rapid development in Sikkim and the entire Northeast region.

V-P offers prayers at Tirumala temple

TIRUPATI

Vice President CP Radhakrishnan on Tuesday visited the revered Sri Venkateswara Swamy Temple and offered prayers, seeking peace, prosperity, and well-being for the nation. The visit marked his second pilgrimage to the temple since assuming office.

Upon his arrival at Tirumala, the Vice President was warmly received by Anam Ramanarayana Reddy, along with officials of the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams, including Chairman B.R. Naidu and Executive Officer Muddada Ravichandra.

Temple priests extended a traditional ceremonial welcome, offering the customary rituals that signify respect and devotion.

Radhakrishnan began his visit by paying obeisance at the Dwajasthambham, the temple flagpole, before proceeding for darshan of Lord Venkateswara. He also visited several associated shrines within the temple, including those dedicated to Goddess Vakulamata, Lord Vimana Venkateswara, the Bhashyakara Sannidhi, and Lord Yoga Narasimha Swamy, reflecting the spiritual significance of the complex.

At the Ranganayakula Mandapam, Vedic scholars recited sacred hymns and offered blessings through Vedic rituals. The temple authorities presented the Vice President with a portrait of the presiding deity along with sacred offerings, including holy water and consecrated food. He later visited the shrine of Bedi Anjaneya Swamy Temple, located opposite the main temple, and offered prayers there as well. Senior officials, including TTD Additional Executive Officer Venkaiah Chowdary and Board Member Bhanu Prakash Reddy, were present to oversee arrangements and facilitate the visit.

Pakistan denies involvement in deadly border strikes

Kabul

Tensions rose between Afghanistan and Pakistan after the Taliban accused Pakistan of carrying out cross-border attacks in Kunar province, killing four people and injuring many. The strikes reportedly hit civilian areas, including homes and a university in Asadabad. Pakistan denied the claims, calling them false and saying any military action would be clearly announced. Officials also reported injuries on their side due to gunfire. The incident comes during fragile peace talks following a recent ceasefire. Ongoing clashes and mutual accusations continue to strain relations, raising concerns over stability along the border region.

Shooting suspect charged with attempted assassination

Washington DC

A 31-year-old man, Cole Tomas Allen, has been charged with attempting to assassinate US President Donald Trump after a shooting at the White House Correspondents' Dinner. The incident took place at the Washington Hilton, where top leaders were present. Officials said the suspect breached security and fired shots before being quickly stopped by Secret Service personnel. One officer was injured but protected by a vest. The President and other guests were safely evacuated. Authorities said the accused faces multiple serious charges. Investigations are ongoing, and officials praised security forces for their swift and effective response.

IndiGo resumes India-China direct flight services

Guangzhou

An IndiGo flight from Delhi landed in Guangzhou, marking the restart of direct services between India and China. The move restores important air links and is expected to ease travel for passengers. Officials said the route will support growing demand as relations between the two countries improve. Alongside this, Air China has also resumed flights between Beijing and Delhi. More services by other airlines are being added to strengthen connectivity. The development reflects increasing cooperation in aviation and trade. Authorities believe the restored routes will boost tourism, business travel, and overall economic ties between both nations.

Aussie min issues urgent plea for reef protection

Watt urges urgent action to save the Great Barrier Reef, highlighting its nine-billion-dollar economic value and the critical need for ramped-up conservation efforts.

CANBERRA

Australia's Environment Minister, Murray Watt, issued a stirring call, declaring that humanity must be "at its best" to save the Great Barrier Reef.

Speaking at a foundation event, Watt warned that failing to protect the world's largest coral system would constitute "gross negligence," calling it the nation's most vital natural treasure.

The reef is currently battling a barrage of threats, including rising ocean temperatures from climate change, severe storms, and poor water quality. It also faces biological dangers from invasive crown-of-thorns starfish and the ongoing impact of commercial fishing. Watt emphasized that losing the reef is simply not an option, given its immense importance to both the planet and the Australian economy.Beyond its environmental beauty, the reef is a financial powerhouse. New research reveals it contributed over nine billion Australian dollars to the national economy in the last year alone. It also supports 77,000 full-time jobs, ranking as the country's fifth-largest employer.

To combat these risks, the federal government has joined forces with the Queensland state government to launch a major five-year review of the "2050 Sustainability Plan." This framework, established in 2015, directs all government funding and conservation efforts. While recent reports sent to UNESCO show progress in managing starfish outbreaks and improving water quality, Watt insists that efforts must be ramped up. The minister's message was clear, protecting this iconic natural wonder requires a global commitment to sustainable practices before it is too late.

South Korea pledges to fix ally issues

President Lee Jae-myung pledged to resolve diplomatic friction with allies while asserting South Korea's sovereign strength and economic resilience.

SEOUL

President Lee Jae Myung announced that South Korea aims to resolve ongoing friction with its traditional allies through a lens of mutual respect and sovereign confidence. Speaking at a Cabinet meeting, Lee emphasized that international cooperation must be built on "common sense and principles" to ensure healthy, future-oriented relationships.

The President's comments follow recent diplomatic tension with Washington. Reports suggest the United States partially suspended sharing intelligence regarding North Korea after a South Korean minister publicly identified a specific site as a uranium enrichment center. While the U.S. suspected a leak of classified data, Seoul maintains the information came from public sources. Additionally, a major data breach at the e-commerce giant Coupang has added further strain to the bilateral relationship.Amid these challenges, President Lee pivoted to a message of national strength. He highlighted South Korea's military as the fifth-strongest in the world, noting that the country's defense spending now dwarfs North Korea's entire economy. Lee remains committed to regaining wartime operational control of his nation's troops from the U.S. by 2030, a power held by Washington since the Korean War.

On the home front, Lee shared positive news regarding the economy, which grew by 1.7 percent in the first quarter. Despite this recovery, he warned that high oil prices and global conflicts still pose risks. He urged officials to remain vigilant, promising that the government would work tirelessly to protect national security and sustain economic momentum during these uncertain times.

Cambodian-Thai diplomats met in Brunei to restore trust and discuss maritime disputes following recent deadly border conflicts.

NEIGHBOURS MEET TO DISCUSS TENSE BORDER ISSUES

PHNOM PENH

Top diplomats from Cambodia and Thailand met in Brunei this week to navigate a delicate path toward peace following recent military conflict.

Cambodian Foreign Minister Prak Sokhonn and his Thai counterpart, Sihasak Phuangketkeow, held "candid discussions" on the sidelines of an international summit to restore trust between the two nations.

The high-level talks come at a critical time. Only months ago, in December 2025, the two neighbors agreed to a ceasefire after three weeks of border fighting resulted in casualties on both sides. Sokhonn emphasized that lasting stability requires a "genuine commitment" to international law and the ASEAN Charter to ensure unity within the region.

However, a new diplomatic rift is opening over the sea. Cambodia expressed "deep regret" over reports that Thailand may unilaterally withdraw from a 2001 agreement regarding overlapping maritime claims. This agreement was designed to allow both countries to jointly explore energy resources in the Gulf of Thailand. Thai officials argued that the old deal has yielded no progress and suggest negotiating under newer United Nations maritime frameworks instead.

While the Thai cabinet still needs to finalize the decision to scrap the maritime deal, the Cambodian government remains firmly committed to the original spirit of cooperation. As both nations look to move past the shadows of recent violence, these discussions represent a vital effort to replace military confrontation with diplomatic dialogue.

Both leaders agree that maintaining peace is essential for the economic prosperity of the entire Southeast Asian community.

ISIS claims attack killing 29 in Nigeria

ADAMAWA

The Islamic State (ISIS) has officially claimed responsibility for a brutal massacre that left at least 29 people dead in Nigeria's Adamawa state. The group issued a statement following the assault on the Guyaku community, located within the Gombi Local Government Area, where armed gunmen targeted unsuspecting residents in a wave of violence.State Governor Ahmadu Umaru Fintiri visited the grieving community to assess the damage and offer support to survivors. Describing the incident as "tragic and unacceptable," the Governor confirmed the death toll and condemned the killers. He called the assault a "cowardly act" and an affront to humanity, promising that those responsible for the bloodshed would face justice.

High speed train crushes stalled Jakarta commuter

JAKARTA

At least seven people are confirmed dead and dozens injured after a high-speed flagship train slammed into a stalled commuter service on the outskirts of Jakarta. Emergency teams worked desperately to liberate survivors pinned beneath twisted metal, with officials warning that the death toll will likely rise as rescuers reach more "mangled carriages."The disaster began with a bizarre chain reaction at a level crossing. According to rail operator KAI, a taxi clipped a Jakarta-Cikarang commuter train, causing the local service to stall on the tracks. Shortly after, the Argo Bromo Anggrek, a premier high-speed express traveling between the capital and Surabaya, plowed into the stationary cars. The impact was so severe that search and rescue head Mohammad Syafii described the scene as having "limited space" for even the most basic evacuation maneuvers.Witnesses watched as responders used angle grinders to cut through steel frames to reach those trapped inside. The National Search and Rescue Agency (BASARNAS) noted that the process is moving "slowly" to avoid further injury to those still alive within the debris.

King Charles visits DC amid ally tension

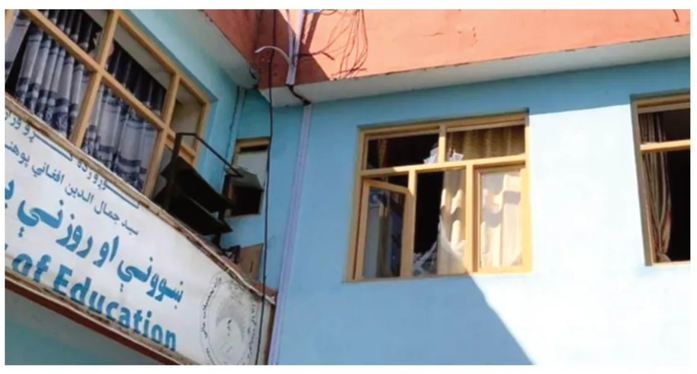
WASHINGTON

King Charles III and Queen Camilla arrived in the United States for a historic four-day visit, landing at a time of both celebration and significant diplomatic strain. The visit marks the first time a British monarch has stepped onto American soil in nearly twenty years, arriving just as the US prepares to celebrate its 250th anniversary of independence.The Royal couple was welcomed at the White House by President Donald Trump and First Lady Melania Trump. While the meeting began with traditional "soft power" diplomacy, including tea and a tour of the White House beehives, the backdrop is dominated by a rare military rift. Tensions have spiked over the 2026 conflict with Iran; while the Trump administration has favored aggressive military action, the UK government has pushed for de-escalation. This disagreement has led to a visible cooling of relations between the two long-term allies.

Historians are drawing parallels to Queen Elizabeth II's 1957 visit, which aimed to repair ties after the Suez Crisis. Once again, a British monarch is being used as a "reset button" to soothe a frustrated U.S. administration through the prestige of the Crown.

Pak missile strike on varsity injures 30

KABUL



Afghanistan's Ministry of Higher Education issued a scathing condemnation following a Pakistani military missile strike on Sayed Jamaluddin Afghan University. The attack, which occurred in the eastern Kunar province, reportedly injured nearly thirty students and professors while leaving the campus infrastructure in ruins.The Ministry described the strike as a "cowardly and ruthless" act that violates both Islamic principles and international law. Officials argued that the barrage was not just a military action, but a direct assault on the fundamental foundations of Afghan education. Higher Education Minister Neda Mohammad Nadeem has since ordered immediate medical priority for the victims and vowed to use all available resources to protect academic and religious institutions.Independent monitors, including the International Human Rights Foundation (IHRF), reported even higher casualty figures, suggesting up to 48 people were affected. Witnesses described a scene of total chaos as missiles struck while classes were in session, sending students running for cover.

Mayor condemns Queens subway shooting of teen

NEW YORK

Mayor Zohran Mamdani issued a stern warning that "violence has no place on our subways" following a harrowing shooting that left a 15-year-old boy wounded on a crowded Queens train. The attack occurred during the height of the rush hour on a Manhattan-bound A train as it pulled into the 80th Street station, sparking widespread panic among commuters.

The New York City Police Department (NYPD) is currently questioning two persons of interest, though a weapon has not yet been recovered. Investigators believe the gunfire erupted following a heated verbal dispute inside the train car. Witnesses described a scene of "pandemonium" as riders dove for the floor to avoid the bullets. "Believe me, they were not firecrackers," one witness told reporters, describing how passengers fled in terror once the doors finally opened at the platform.The young victim was rushed to Jamaica Hospital and is thankfully expected to survive. Mayor Mamdani, who was briefed on the situation shortly after the incident, emphasized his administration's commitment to protecting children on their daily commutes. He called the shooting "unacceptable" and vowed to increase safety measures throughout the transit network.Queens District Attorney Melinda Katz joined the Mayor in condemning the violence, highlighting the urgent need to remove illegal firearms from the hands of young people. As the 80th Street station was cordoned off for evidence collection, city officials reassured a nervous public that every resource would be used to ensure the subway remains a safe space for all New Yorkers.

Admiral warns China is pacing while US fights in Iran

WASHINGTON

Admiral Samuel J. Paparo, Commander of the U.S. Indo-Pacific Command (INDOPACOM), delivered a sobering warning to Congress, cautioning that China's military remains a profound and growing threat even as American resources are heavily diverted to "Operation Epic Fury" in Iran. During his testimony before the House Armed Services Committee, Paparo stressed that while the U.S. is engaged in the Middle East, the Indo-Pacific remains the "decisive theater" for American security.

The primary concern among lawmakers is the rapid depletion of the U.S. "magazine depth." Estimates suggest the war against Tehran is costing nearly $1 billion per day, consuming finite stocks of precision-guided missiles and munitions that would be vital in a conflict over Taiwan. Admiral Paparo admitted there are "finite limits" to current stockpiles, though he maintained confidence that resources are being used judiciously.

VANISHING WORKFORCE

Afghan faces massive loss of female workers

KABUL

A chilling new report from UNICEF warns that Afghanistan is on the brink of a professional collapse, risking the loss of over 25,000 female teachers and healthcare workers by 2030.

The analysis, highlights the devastating "cost of inaction" as strict bans on girls' education and women's employment continue to stifle the nation's future.

According to the data, the country could lose 20,000 educators and 5,400 medical professionals within the next four years. This shortage is fueled by a dual crisis, experienced women are retiring or leaving the workforce, while the next generation of girls is barred from the secondary and higher education needed to replace them. Since 2021, over one million girls have been denied the right to learn, a number expected to double by 2030 if policies do not change.

The impact on public health and safety is particularly dire. In many parts of Afghanistan, cultural norms prevent women from seeking medical care from men. As female doctors and nurses disappear, maternal and newborn health services will inevitably decline. UNICEF Executive Director Catherine Russell noted that these restrictions are already costing the Afghan economy roughly $84 million every year. UNICEF is urgently calling on the de facto authorities to lift the ban on secondary education. Without a swift reversal, the agency warns that the country will lose an entire generation of skilled professionals, leaving schools empty and hospitals unable to provide essential care for the nation's most vulnerable women and children.

Bullet train plan promises faster south connectivity

VISAKHAPATNAM

Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw announced plans for a high-speed bullet train network in South India, aiming to reduce travel time and boost regional growth. The proposed routes will connect major cities like Hyderabad, Chennai, Bengaluru, Pune, and Mumbai. Officials said the project will create a strong economic network across regions. The minister also confirmed that the South Coast Railway Zone will be notified on June 1, 2026. Plans to expand railway lines and modernise stations are underway. Authorities believe improved rail and digital connectivity will support development, tourism, and business, making travel faster and more efficient.

Indian energy giants strike oil in Libya

Oil India and Indian Oil have discovered significant oil and gas reserves in Libya's Ghadames Basin.

NEW DELHI

The Indian government announced that a consortium of national oil companies has made a significant oil and gas discovery in Libya's Ghadames Basin.

The success of Oil India Limited (OIL) and Indian Oil Corporation Limited (IOCL) is being hailed as a major milestone, reflecting the growing global footprint of India's energy sector.

The discovery occurred in "Contract Area 95/96," where a well was drilled to a depth of 8,440 feet. Early testing produced impressive results, yielding 13 million cubic feet of gas and 327 barrels of condensate per day. This project was a collaborative effort with SIPEX Algeria serving as the operator, highlighting the success of strategic international partnerships.

The Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas congratulated the firms on social media, noting that the find is a "promising development" for India's long-term energy security. The government is currently pushing to increase domestic crude production to 35 million metric tonnes by 2030 to meet rising demand. By acquiring overseas assets like the one in Libya, India aims to reduce its heavy reliance on energy imports.

The news sent ripples through the stock market, with Oil India shares jumping more than 4 percent to an intraday high of Rs 497 on the BSE. While Indian Oil shares remained relatively flat, the overall sentiment remains high. This discovery not only strengthens India's presence in North Africa but also serves as a testament to the technical capabilities of its state-run energy giants on the world stage.

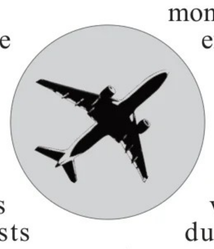
Indian airlines may cut flights after fuel hike

NEW DELHI

Domestic airlines are currently in a 'wait-and-watch' mode, assessing how rising fuel expenses will impact their bottom lines.

Indian airlines are bracing for a potential reduction in flight capacity as they await the next revision of Aviation Turbine Fuel (ATF) prices in May.

According to reports, a sharp increase in jet fuel costs could force carriers to rationalize their operations, particularly by cutting frequencies on less profitable, short-haul routes.



Domestic airlines are currently in a "wait-and-watch" mode, assessing how rising fuel expenses will impact their bottom lines. Industry sources suggest that if costs jump substantially, routes with consistently low passenger occupancy will be the first to face the axe. This caution persists despite recent government efforts to cushion the blow, including a 25 percent reduction in parking and landing fees at major airports and a temporary cap on April fuel price hikes.

However, the outlook remains volatile. The Ministry of Finance recently notified an increase in the duty on ATF, raising it from Rs 29.5 to Rs 42 per litre. If the government decides to withdraw the current 25 percent cap on monthly price increases, experts warn that domestic flight cancellations could spike sharply.

India's aviation sector is particularly vulnerable right now due to the nation's heavy reliance on oil imports, which cover over 85 percent of its needs.

With geopolitical tensions in West Asia threatening global supply chains, airlines are being forced to re-evaluate their networks.

For travelers, this could mean fewer choices and higher fares as carriers prioritize financial survival over expansive flight schedules in a high-cost environment.

Adani Group pledges billions for India's AI

VISAKHAPATNAM

In a massive boost to the nation's digital future, the Adani Group announced a $100 billion commitment to build the infrastructure required for India's artificial intelligence (AI) growth.

Speaking at the foundation ceremony for a new Google AI Data Centre, Director Jeet Adani emphasized that for India to lead the global AI race, it must build massive, homegrown facilities.

The centerpiece of this ambition is a $15 billion joint project with Google Cloud to construct a data center campus in Visakhapatnam. Set to be the largest facility of its kind outside the United States, the project represents one of the biggest foreign investments in Indian history. It will utilize the same cutting-edge technology that powers global giants like Google Search and YouTube.

Jeet Adani highlighted that the "affordability of intelligence" starts with energy. The Adani Group plans to create an integrated platform linking energy generation and digital networks, all powered by clean, reliable power. "As the cost of computing falls, innovation accelerates," he noted, adding that cheap energy is the key to making AI accessible to everyone, not just large corporations.

Currently, India's total data center capacity sits at roughly 1.3 gigawatts. Remarkably, the Visakhapatnam site alone is designed to reach 1 gigawatt. Comparing the city to the tech-heavy Bengaluru, Adani predicted that Visakhapatnam will anchor India's AI revolution. By building at this unprecedented scale, the group aims to democratize AI, ensuring the technology transforms society and fosters inclusive economic growth across the country.

Manufacturing hubs drive India's bold economic push

NEW DELHI

India is betting big on integrated manufacturing hubs to skyrocket its economy from $3.7 trillion to a staggering $35 trillion by 2047. According to reports, the government aims to increase manufacturing's share of the GDP to 25 percent, up from its current level of roughly 17 percent.

This ambitious shift relies on "system-level planning" rather than individual projects. By building massive industrial corridors like the Delhi–Mumbai and Vizag–Chennai lines, the government is creating spatial ecosystems that combine world-class logistics with regulatory support. To fuel this, capital expenditure has seen a historic rise, jumping from Rs 2 lakh crore a decade ago to Rs 12.2 lakh crore for the 2026–27 fiscal year.

Global investors are taking notice, ranking India as the world's third most sought-after manufacturing destination. The quality of production is also evolving, nearly half of the country's manufacturing value now comes from medium- and high-technology activities. Meanwhile, the nation's 7.47 crore MSMEs remain the backbone of this growth.

India unveils bold digital roadmap for 2047

NEW DELHI

NITI Aayog launched a strategic roadmap titled "DPI@2047," charting a course to transform India into a developed nation through advanced Digital Public Infrastructure (DPI). Developed with Deloitte and the EkStep Foundation, the plan shifts the national focus from simple digital inclusion to a new era of massive productivity and livelihood-led growth.

The roadmap outlines a two-phase journey. The immediate priority, DPI 2.0 (2025–2035), aims to break structural bottlenecks in agriculture, health, and small businesses. This will be followed by DPI 3.0 (2035–2047), focusing on broad-based prosperity. The goal is to move beyond basic digital identity and payments, creating "connective infrastructure" that allows innovation to reach every citizen and small enterprise at lightning speed.

To achieve this, the government identified four execution pillars like district-level demand, scaling tech entrepreneurship, leveraging artificial intelligence, and improving data use. Principal Scientific Adviser Prof. Ajay Kumar Sood noted that India's ability to lead will be defined by turning science into "trusted public outcomes." By democratizing AI and open systems, the plan ensures that frontier technologies are not just for the elite but are used to raise living standards nationwide.

India's industry hiring jumps as jobs multiply

NEW DELHI

India's Manufacturing, Engineering, and Infrastructure (MEI) sector is witnessing a massive hiring boom, recording a 6.6 percent net employment gain for the first half of the 2026–27 fiscal year.

A new report reveals that roughly 70 percent of employers in these fields plan to expand their workforce, fueled by aggressive investments in semiconductors and clean energy.

The surge is largely driven by government-led initiatives like the National Manufacturing Mission. Massive semiconductor projects in Gujarat, Tamil Nadu, and Karnataka are expected to create nearly one million jobs by 2028, spanning chip design, testing, and supply chain roles. Experts say the sector has moved past simple recovery and is now in a phase of high-speed growth, particularly as factories adopt "Industry 4.0" technologies such as automation and digital plant operations.

Geographically, Chennai is leading the charge with a 24 percent intent to hire, followed closely by Pune and Bengaluru.

These cities are benefiting from their proximity to major manufacturing hubs and research centers.

Because the demand for skilled engineers and project managers is so high, the report projects that salary raises in this sector will hit 9.4 percent, outpacing traditional heavyweights like the IT and banking industries.

With 46 percent of companies maintaining stable headcounts and 33 percent actively growing, the data suggests this isn't just a temporary spike but a sustained, investment-driven expansion.

As India cements its role as a global manufacturing hub, the MEI sector is fast becoming the primary engine for high-quality, high-paying jobs across the country.

Govt orders heatwave protections for workers

NEW DELHI

As temperatures soar across the country, the Ministry of Labour and Employment issued a mandatory heatwave advisory, ordering States and Union Territories to implement immediate safety measures for the nation's workforce.

The directive specifically targets outdoor and labor-intensive industries, such as construction, mining, and brick kilns, where workers face the highest risk of heat-related illness.

The government has mandated a multi-sectoral approach, requiring employers to provide adequate drinking water, shaded rest areas, and cooling arrangements at workplaces.

The ministry is placing a heavy emphasis on "vulnerable" groups, including daily wage earners and casual laborers who often work at "labor chowks." States are encouraged to launch public awareness campaigns using posters and banners to display safety messages and emergency contact numbers.

To ensure compliance, all organizations and state departments must submit fortnightly status reports to the Ministry. This monitoring system is designed to ensure that the guidelines translate into real-world protection, preventing the tragic fatalities often associated with India's increasingly severe summer heatwaves.

OPENAI-MICROSOFT REWRITE THEIR MULTI-BILLION-DOLLAR DEAL

WASHINGTON

In a major shift for the AI industry, Microsoft and OpenAI announced a significant overhaul of their multi-billion dollar partnership.

The revised deal effectively ends the exclusivity that previously tethered OpenAI's cutting-edge models solely to Microsoft's ecosystem, granting the ChatGPT creator newfound freedom to work with rival cloud providers.

The amended agreement is designed to provide "flexibility and certainty" as the AI landscape becomes increasingly competitive. While Microsoft remains the primary cloud partner, OpenAI is now permitted to offer its products across multiple platforms.

This move allows OpenAI to diversify its enterprise reach while easing the antitrust scrutiny that has dogged the relationship in recent months.

Despite these changes, the two companies remain deeply intertwined. Microsoft will continue to be a major shareholder and will collaborate with OpenAI on massive infrastructure projects, including next-generation silicon development and expanding global data center capacity.

OpenAI will also continue making revenue share payments to Microsoft through 2030, though these are now subject to a total cap.

India set to become global electronics, semiconductor hub'

VISAKHAPATNAM

Union Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw declared that India is set to become a premier "trusted supply chain partner" for the global electronics industry.

Speaking at the groundbreaking ceremony for the Google Cloud India AI Hub, Vaishnaw emphasized that the country is rapidly moving beyond its reputation for IT services to become a powerhouse in high-tech manufacturing.

The Minister highlighted India's explosive growth in mobile manufacturing, noting that local production now meets nearly 50 percent of domestic demand. Furthermore, under the National Semiconductor Mission, commercial production has officially commenced on Indian soil. Vaishnaw extended a direct invitation to global tech giants to move their production of servers, GPUs, and chips to India, citing the country's reliable policy framework and visionary leadership.

The $15 billion Google project in Visakhapatnam is a cornerstone of this strategy. Vaishnaw predicted that these investments would transform Visakhapatnam into "AI Patnam" (AI City), serving as a global hub for Artificial Intelligence, Space, and Quantum technology.

Key features of the development include:

- Hyperscale AI Data Centre: A 1 GW facility developed in partnership with AdaniConneX and Airtel Nxtra.
- Massive Land Allocation: The Andhra Pradesh government has provided 600 acres across Turluvada, Rambilli, and Adavivaram.
- Global Connectivity: Google is laying three subsea cables from Visakhapatnam, linking India directly to digital routes in Australia, the Middle East, Europe, Africa, and the U.S.

THE MEMORY BOTTLENECK

Global chip shortage squeezes smartphone market

SEOUL

A critical global shortage of memory chips is reshaping the smartphone industry, creating a sharp divide between tech giants and their Chinese rivals.

While the overall market saw a 4.1% decline in shipments during the first quarter, Samsung and Apple have emerged as the only major players to post year-on-year growth, leveraging their massive supply chain influence to navigate the crisis.

The bottleneck centers on Low-Power DRAM (LPDDR), a vital component for mobile devices. Demand for these chips has skyrocketed as AI leader Nvidia hoards supply for its next-generation "Vera Rubin" GPU platforms. This competition has sent prices soaring, leaving manufacturers with a difficult choice, pay a premium or face production stalls.

Industry analysts point out that Samsung and Apple are uniquely positioned to survive this "chip crunch." Apple uses its "financial firepower" to lock in supply through massive prepayments, while Samsung relies on internal coordination between its chip-making and phone-making divisions. In contrast, Chinese vendors like Xiaomi, Oppo, and Vivo are losing ground. Xiaomi alone saw shipments drop by 8 million units this quarter. These companies, which rely heavily on budget and mid-range models, cannot easily pass rising component costs onto consumers without losing sales volume.

Brand	Shipments (Millions)	Market share
Samsung	62.8	21.7%
Apple	61.1	19.6%
Broad Market	289.7	-4.1% (YOY)

The outlook for the rest of the year remains grim. Reports predicts the shortage will drag global shipments down to 1.12 billion units, the lowest level since 2013. Experts believe this represents a permanent shift in the industry, where design and camera quality once determined a phone's success, the ability to reliably secure core components has now become the ultimate competitive advantage. Market stabilization is not expected until at least late 2027.

AXAR PATEL BLAMES LUCK, HESITATION FOR DC COLLAPSE

NEW DELHI

Delhi Capitals captain Axar Patel blamed a combination of hesitation, pressure and "bad luck" for his side's dramatic batting collapse against Royal Challengers Bengaluru in the IPL clash.

Axar said the team never recovered after losing wickets in quick succession. Delhi were left reeling at six wickets for just eight runs during a disastrous phase that effectively ended the contest.

The skipper admitted the scars of the previous game, where Delhi failed to defend a massive 264-run total against Punjab Kings, may have subconsciously affected the batters.

"I think because of what happened in the last game there was some hesitation. Other than that, I think it was bad luck. No batter could really settle because wickets kept falling every one or two balls," Axar said.

He explained that conditions changed rapidly during the innings. According to him, there was considerable swing with the new ball before the pitch eased out later. However, by then, the damage had already been done.

"In the first over there was swing. Later, once boundaries came, the swing reduced. But when you score only around 60 or 70, bowlers also feel pressure because they know the total is too low," he added.

Axar refused to blame the bowling attack and instead accepted that the batting unit failed to adjust to the changing conditions. He said the surface looked similar to the one used in the previous match, but weather and wind conditions made batting much tougher under lights.

The Delhi captain also confirmed that Australian fast bowler Mitchell Starc has joined the squad and is expected to be available after May 1, depending on workload management.

Backing debutant Sahil Parakh despite his early dismissal, Axar said the youngster showed promise during training sessions and deserved support.

He also urged fans to continue backing the team despite the setback, insisting one poor performance should not lead to panic or drastic changes in the squad.

Maharaj replaces injured Santner in MI squad

South African spinner joins Mumbai Indians after Santner suffers shoulder injury during recent clash

MUMBAI

Keshav Maharaj has replaced injured New Zealand all-rounder Mitchell Santner in the Mumbai Indians squad for the remainder of the IPL 2026 season.

The Indian Premier League confirmed the development after Santner was ruled out with a left shoulder injury sustained during Mumbai Indians' previous match against Chennai Super Kings at the Wankhede Stadium.

According to the IPL statement, Santner suffered the injury while attempting a catch near the boundary ropes. The New Zealand spinner had taken an impressive diving catch to dismiss Kartik Sharma off a delivery from Jasprit Bumrah, but landed awkwardly, injuring his shoulder and also appearing to hurt his head during the fall.

He was later substituted by Shardul Thakur under the concussion substitute rule as concerns grew over his condition.

Mumbai Indians head coach Mahela Jayawardene said Santner experienced dizziness after returning to the dressing room and was immediately taken for scans. "I think he hit his head first, neck, obviously the shoulder as well. He went for a scan because once he got back, he felt dizziness. He felt that he was not stable, so we took him for a scan," Jayawardene told reporters after the game.

Maharaj, one of South Africa's most experienced spin-bowling all-rounders, recently featured in the T20I series against New Zealand. The left-arm spinner has limited IPL experience, having played two matches for Rajasthan Royals during the 2024 season.

The IPL said Maharaj joins Mumbai Indians for a fee of ₹75 lakh as the five-time champions look to strengthen their spin department ahead of the crucial final phase of the tournament.

Mumbai Indians will next face Sunrisers Hyderabad on Wednesday as they continue their push for a playoff berth.

Parth Jindal urges DC to stay united after crushing defeat against RCB

NEW DELHI

Parth Jindal has urged Delhi Capitals to remain united and keep believing after the franchise suffered a humiliating nine-wicket defeat against Royal Challengers Bengaluru in IPL 2026 at the Arun Jaitley Stadium.

Delhi endured one of the worst collapses in IPL history after being bowled out for just 75 runs in 16.3 overs. The home side was reduced to a shocking 8 for 6 within the first four overs as Josh Hazlewood and Bhuvneshwar Kumar dismantled the batting line-up with a devastating spell of swing bowling.

The dramatic collapse came on the same ground where Delhi had scored 264 runs only days earlier, making the defeat even more painful for players and supporters.

Reacting after the match, Jindal broke his silence on social media and appealed to the team not to let the season slip away following the crushing setback.

"Stay together more than ever now @DelhiCapitals – really very tough to take, but we must keep fighting and keep believing," Jindal posted on X.

The defeat has placed Delhi's playoff hopes under serious pressure, with the franchise now languishing in seventh place on the points table after managing only three wins from eight matches. Their net run rate has also taken a major hit, dropping to -1.060.

Delhi captain Axar Patel admitted after the game that the team was left stunned by the sudden collapse and struggled to understand how events unfolded so quickly.

"I still don't understand what happened. Tonight was a total blackout," Axar said during the post-match presentation.

England all-rounder expected to strengthen struggling Mumbai Indians against Sunrisers Hyderabad clash Wednesday

WILL JACKS SET FOR FIRST IPL 2026 APPEARANCE AS MUMBAI SEEK CAMPAIGN REVIVAL

MUMBAI

Will Jacks is set to make his first appearance of IPL 2026 for Mumbai Indians as the five-time champions look to revive their faltering campaign against Sunrisers Hyderabad on Wednesday.

Jacks, who arrived late for the season due to international commitments, trained extensively at the Wankhede Stadium on Monday evening, strongly indicating he will be drafted straight into the playing XI for the crucial encounter.

The England all-rounder was expected to play a major role for Mumbai this season after an impressive ICC T20 World Cup campaign, where he collected four Player-of-the-Match awards. However, his delayed arrival had left fans wondering when — or even if — he would join the squad.

Mumbai's season has already slipped into dangerous territory with five defeats from seven matches, leaving little margin for further setbacks. The team's heavy home defeat to Chennai Super Kings last week only intensified pressure on the squad and leadership group. Jacks' inclusion has become even more significant following the injury to Mitchell Santner, who has been ruled out of the remainder of the tournament with a shoulder injury sustained against Chennai.

The 27-year-old is expected to provide much-needed balance to the Mumbai side. Captain Hardik Pandya has struggled to deliver consistently with the bat this season, and Jacks' aggressive finishing ability could add depth to a batting line-up that has failed to click regularly.

Apart from his batting, Jacks' off-spin may also prove crucial against Hyderabad's left-handed heavy batting unit. Mumbai management believes his all-round versatility can offer greater flexibility in team combinations during the business end of the tournament.

Head coach Mahela Jayawardene and the team leadership are hoping Jacks' arrival sparks a turnaround in fortunes as Mumbai chase momentum in a tightly contested IPL season.

For Mumbai Indians, the upcoming clash could mark a defining point — and Jacks may well become the catalyst they desperately need.

Clinical Manchester United beat Brentford to strengthen top-four grip

MANCHESTER

Manchester United produced a clinical display to defeat Brentford 2-1 at Old Trafford, moving three points clear in third place and strengthening their push for Champions League qualification.

The win also saw United pull ahead of chasing rivals Liverpool and Aston Villa, taking a significant step toward securing a top-four finish for the first time since 2024.

United made a fast start when Casemiro opened the scoring in the 11th minute, rising at the back post to head home his 11th headed goal since joining the club in 2022. Only Erling Haaland, Ollie Watkins, and Chris Wood have scored more headed goals in that period.

Brentford responded well in an open first half but were punished again just before the interval when Benjamin Šeško finished a rapid counterattack, converting a precise pass from Bruno Fernandes.

The assist was Fernandes' 19th of the Premier League season, the highest in the league, leaving him just one short of the all-time single-season record. Šeško praised the understanding between the pair after the match.

"Me and Bruno Fernandes work a lot on the training pitch and it is paying off. Having a teammate with this quality is a pleasure," he said.

Brentford improved after the break and created several chances, but poor finishing cost them a result. Their persistence was rewarded late when Mathias Jensen struck from distance in the 87th minute to set up a nervy finale.

India bow out of Uber Cup with 0–5 defeat to China

DENMARK

PV Sindhu led from the front but India Women crashed out of the Uber Cup Finals after suffering a comprehensive 0–5 defeat to China in their final Group A tie.

The result marked the end of India's campaign after an opening 2–3 loss to hosts Denmark and a convincing 4–1 win over Ukraine earlier in the group stage.

Facing the most successful team in Uber Cup history, China women's badminton team, India struggled to convert key moments despite fighting performances across matches.

Sindhu came close to turning the tie in India's favour during the opening singles against world No. 2 Wang Zhiyi. She led 18–12 in the deciding game but eventually lost 16–21, 21–19, 19–21 after a dramatic turnaround.

The defeat gave China a 1–0 lead, and the momentum never shifted thereafter.

In doubles, Priya Konjengbam and Shruti Mishra were overpowered by the world No. 1 pair Liu Sheng Shu and Tan Ning, going down 11–21, 8–21.

India's second singles player Isharani Baruah showed flashes of brilliance against Tokyo Olympic champion Chen Yufei but committed errors at crucial stages to lose 22–20, 21–13, giving China an unassailable 3–0 lead.

The pair of Treesa Jolly and Kavipriya Selvam fought hard in their doubles match but went down 10–21, 21–12, 19–21 in a closely contested encounter.

In the final singles, Devika Sihag started strongly but faded against Xu Wen Jing, losing 21–19, 17–21, 10–21.

Sindhu later reflected on her narrow loss, admitting that despite creating multiple chances, she was unable to close out the match. "We were fighting very hard for every point. I had chances, but I couldn't convert them," Sindhu said.

With this defeat, India end their Uber Cup journey on a disappointing note, while China continue their dominant run in the tournament. Attention will now shift to India's men's team, who face China in the upcoming Thomas Cup encounter.

New York City to host free World Cup fan events across all five boroughs

NEW YORK

New York City will host a series of free World Cup fan events across all five boroughs, offering residents a chance to experience the tournament atmosphere without paying steep ticket prices.

The initiative was announced by city officials, with events designed to bring the excitement of the global football spectacle closer to local communities. Each borough will host its own fan zone featuring live match screenings, entertainment, and themed activities.

The venues include Rockefeller Center in Manhattan, Billie Jean King National Tennis Center in Queens, Brooklyn Bridge Park in Brooklyn, a shopping complex near Yankee Stadium in the Bronx, and a minor league baseball stadium in Staten Island. A separate fan event will also be held at Sports Illustrated Stadium, home of the New York Red Bulls, though that event will carry a $10 entry fee.

The announcement comes as officials expect the region to generate more than $3.3 billion in economic activity during the tournament. However, there are concerns that residents could be priced out of live match experiences due to high ticket and travel costs.

World Cup matches are scheduled to take place at MetLife Stadium, where transportation and access costs alone could reach up to $150 for some fans attending games. New York City Mayor Zohran Mamdani, a well-known football enthusiast, announced the programme alongside New York Governor Kathy Hochul.

Sabalenka powers through Madrid while virus scare disrupts top stars

MADRID

World No. 1 Aryna Sabalenka stayed on course to defend her title at the Madrid Open, overcoming a tough challenge from Naomi Osaka while several top players were hit by a mysterious stomach virus sweeping through the tournament.

Sabalenka defeated Osaka 6-7 (1), 6-3, 6-2 in a gripping fourth-round match on Monday, extending her winning streak to 15 matches and reaching yet another WTA quarterfinal. Despite dropping the first set, the Belarusian regrouped strongly to dominate the final two sets.

However, much of the attention in Madrid has shifted off the court due to a health scare affecting multiple players. Iga Świątek, Coco Gauff and Marin Čilić were among those reportedly affected by a stomach virus or possible food poisoning.

The outbreak has sparked concern in the locker rooms, with rumours suggesting contaminated food—possibly shrimp tacos—could be responsible.

Sabalenka, however, has so far avoided any illness and said she is taking strict precautions with her diet.
